Attendees of Friday's groundbreaking ceremony for Response's domestic abuse shelter in Basalt are shown. The nonprofit's executive director, Shannon Meyer, second from left, said the organization has raised $8.83 million for the $9 million project. When completed in January 2025, the Halle Center for Hope and Healing will have a 24-bed shelter for victims of domestic abuse. Response was founded in Aspen 40 years ago this month.
